PROGRAM NOTES

Two Processional Fanfares, Elgar Howarth.

These fanfares were composed for the enthronement of the Archbishop of Canterbury in Canterbury Cathedral in January of 1975. They were performed by the famed Philip Jones Brass Ensemble. In today's concert, they will be performed from the balcony.

The Unanswered Question, Charles Ives.

This work is perfectly designed for Neu Chapel's considerable resonance and its rear-located balcony. Ives calls for the strings, woodwinds and trumpet to be placed separately. Thus we have positioned the strings in the front of the chapel and the woodwinds and trumpet on either side of the balcony. Ives' programmatic description of the work follows:

The strings play PPP throughout with no change in tempo. They are to represent "The Silences of the Druids — Who Know, See and Hear Nothing." The trumpet intones "The Perennial Question of Existence," and states it in the same tone of voice each time. But the hunt for "The Invisible Answer" undertaken by the woodwinds and other human beings, becomes gradually more active, faster and louder . . . as the time goes on, and after a "secret conference," the "Fighting Answerers" (i.e., the woodwinds) seem to realize a futility, and begin to mock "The Question" — the strife is over for the moment. After they disappear, "The Question" is asked for the last time, and "The Silences" are heard beyond in "Undisturbed Solitude."

Requiem, Gabriel Fauré, opus 43.

The Requiem Mass was composed over a period of time, begun in 1886, completed in the form heard today after 1900. This final draft includes seven parts as opposed to five in the original 1888 version. Its orchestration is expanded from the original strings (omitting violins), harp, timpani and organ to full string section and added horns, trumpets, trombones, flutes, clarinets and bassoons. It is clearly music of a serene, functional sort which adopts the philosophical meaning of the mass as well as its musical form.
